

VETERANS OF CIVIL WAR DWINDLE IN SIXTY-SECOND CONGRESS

Once the Soldiers of Great National Conflict Predominated in Halls of Both Branches.

OUT OF 391 MEMBERS IN HOUSE 9 ARE WARRIORS

Washington, March 31.—The coming of the sixty-second congress peacefully marks the passing of the soldier statesman. Ever since the close of the Civil War, nearly fifty years ago, the man behind the gun in that memorable conflict has expressed a potent influence upon matters of legislation in both branches of congress.

The ranks of the veterans in congress are now sadly depleted. Their numbers have dwindled to a mere corporal's guard, where once they were not only strong numerically, but politically as well.

Out of 391 members of the incoming house, there will be only nine who saw military service during the war between the states. Many of the old warriors went out with the sixty-first congress. Of these nine, seven are Democrats, and two are Republicans.

General Sherman enjoys the distinction of being the only Democrat in the new house who served in the Union army during the Civil war, and as stated he has only two comrades, both Republicans.

There will be more veterans of our little tilt with the Don's thirteen years ago, in the incoming house, than there are soldiers who fought the great battles in the sixties.

General Sherman enjoys the distinction of being the only Democrat in the new house who served in the Union army during the Civil war, and as stated he has only two comrades, both Republicans. He was formerly a Republican, and as such was elected to the forty-third congress, the one in which ex-Speaker Cannon began his long service in the house. Then he dropped out of congressional life and did not return for 24 years, when he was elected to the sixtieth congress as a Democrat.

General Henry Harrison Ringhena of Philadelphia, who holds the title of "Father of the House" by reason of the fact that he has the record for continuous service, entered the United army as a lieutenant in the 149th Pennsylvania Volunteers and was wounded at Gettysburg.

Representative Napoleon Bonaparte Thistlewood of Cairo, Ill., enlisted in 1862, and carried a musket for two years. He was then commissioned as a captain and fought at Stone River, Tullahoma, Chickamauga, Farmington, Mission Ridge and in the Atlanta campaign, and was wounded in an engagement at Selma, Ala.

George Washington Taylor of Decatur, Ala., at the age of 15, was a student at Columbia, S. C., when he defied for several weeks with the South Carolina troops. Then he enlisted in December, 1864, and served until the close of the war. He never reached a commission.

Judge William Richardson of Huntsville, Ala., was another private in the ranks of the Confederacy, and was many times wounded. A bullet wound at Chickamauga nearly cost him his life, but it also served to send him to congress.

Albert Estopinal of Louisiana left school in 1862 to enlist in the Confederate army. Among the engagements in which he participated was that of Vicksburg where his regiment helped to defend the city against General Grant's long siege.

Captain John Lamb of Richmond commanded Company D, Third Virginia cavalry during the Civil war, and was several times wounded. Representative Joshua Proctor, C. Taylor of Baltimore served four years as a private in the Confederate army, and although he was engaged in many battles and skirmishes with a creditable record, he escaped practically unscathed by the conflict.

SENSATIONAL SUIT FILED TODAY IN DISTRICT COURT

Grover V. Harrison, Well Known Young Man Institutes Proceedings Against Stepfather Demanding Accounting.

BOY KIDNAPED

Unusual interest centers in allegations contained in a suit filed this morning in the district court of this county by Grover V. Harrison against his father, Dr. George W. Harrison.

The complaint alleges that the defendant married the mother for the plaintiff, Wendelene Peron de Harrison, in 1888, and that the children of the marriage were the plaintiff and a sister, Mari Wendelene Harrison, who subsequently died, and the mother or plaintiff died on October 29, 1898, leaving a large estate to which he and his sister were heirs at law, and that following the death of Mrs. Harrison the defendant, Dr. Harrison, had himself appointed administrator of the estate.

It is alleged that the sister of plaintiff died in 1895, and that plaintiff became entitled to a three-eighths interest in her share of the mother's estate. It is also alleged that the defendant had himself appointed guardian of the plaintiff in 1899, and that he has filed only one report to the probate court as guardian.

The complaint sets up that the defendant has received money both as administrator and as guardian for which he has not accounted. Upon coming of age in 1908, it is claimed, the plaintiff demanded of his father an accounting, and upon the advice of his counsel, whose name is not given in the complaint he accepted $10,000 and a house in St. Louis in settlement of all claims against his father, both as administrator and as guardian.

The plaintiff alleges that this settlement was made with insufficient information and without full knowledge of the facts and conditions, and he now repudiates the settlement.

The complaint prays for a full accounting and recovery from the defendant, and for an injunction to restrain him from disposing of any of the property of the estate.

The plaintiff is represented by Attorney E. L. Medler.
